

Trauma-Informed Integrated Healthcare Speaker Series

The Trauma-Informed Integrated Healthcare Webinar Series is intended to lay the groundwork of fundamental knowledge about Integrated Health Care and how it relates to trauma, explore the opportunities and obstacles involved in integrating physical health, mental health, and trauma awareness and treatment into one system, and describe successful models of this integration as we move towards developing a better understanding of the most effective practices for trauma-informed integrated healthcare.

Learning Objectives:

Participants in this webinar series will be able to:

- Define trauma-informed integrated healthcare across the continuum of child and family serving settings and understand how it differs from traditional physical and behavioral healthcare;
- Identify obstacles to integrating physical, mental health and trauma-informed practices and identify strategies for overcoming those
- Articulate the advantages of trauma-informed integrated healthcare
- Describe different models of trauma-informed integrated healthcare.
